

It was ghostly good fun in The Casino at the Radisson on Halloween night

The Casino at the Radisson provided fantasy face painting and wild witches, (not wenches) for Halloween, to get their customers in the holiday mood. A decorative ghostly theme greeted players at the main cashier, and some might claim their lack of good fortune at the Texas Hold 'Em table was "haunting," others spent the night with a smile on their face as they raked in the chips. Admittedly in Texas Hold 'Em, tournaments, "their can be only one," but losers at least don't have to lose their head!

On Halloween night, it isn't that unusual to see such a scene in Aruba, literally, as individuals exercise their imaginations towards some creative costumes and decorations. The Radisson casino provided some fun and thrills for their patrons for the holiday.
